

HOLIDAY GIFT GUIDE 2007: editors' picks

WE FOUND OODLES OF CAN'T-MISS GIFTS TO DELIGHT
EVEN THE FUSSIEST FOLKS ON YOUR SHOPPING LIST

For the foodie

1 Chocoholics can indulge with Dark Chocolate Truffles from Knipschildt Chocolatier, $26 for 10 ounces. Made from Valrhona 71 percent Grand Cru, the sweets are rolled in cocoa powder and have a four-month shelf life.

2 Cognac connoisseurs will appreciate the Rémy Martin Louis XIII Cognac, $1,499, made only with grapes from the Grande Champagne region in France.

3 Italian for "the best milk," the new Lattissima coffee machine from Nespresso, $699 to $799, features a one-touch fresh milk froth function for instantaneous single-serve espresso-based beverages. It has an adjustable cup platform and automatic rinsing function and is available in red, black or satin chrome (shown).

4 Decadent and decorative, The Gatsby Mini Party Cake from Vosges Haut-Chocolat, $50, is five layers of dark chocolate cake pressed between dark chocolate and brut champagne ganache. It's 4 inches tall and serves two to three people.

5 Taste the finest cheeses from France's leading affineur, Hervé Mons, with the Cheese of the Month Club, $240, available through Murray's Cheese. Three cheeses will be shipped for each of four months.

6 Serve up savory or sweet items with the All-Clad Stainless Steel Fondue Pot from Williams-Sonoma, $150. Made with an aluminum core for uniform heating, the pot is dishwasher-safe and comes with six color-coded forks.

7 Give a taste of New York with the Babka and Rugelach Crate from Zabar's renowned Manhattan gourmet emporium, $55. The cherry wood crate is filled with chocolate babka, cinnamon rugelach, a Lindt raspberry chocolate bar and a full pound of Zabar's Blend ground coffee. ■
